“Living a Life of Respect as a Single Woman”

Icebreaker: You've just been given the task of selecting one person living in this country to receive an award as the person most worthy of respect for 2005. Who will it be and why?

Respect comes as a natural process of humility and integrity. It isn't sought out; it is awarded when we don't expect it. God needs people worthy of respect. This is especially true if you are living life as a single woman. This information is beneficial for everyone to share with single woman.

An Encounter with the Word of God

1. Read 1 Corinthians 7:8-9. What conditions should push someone toward becoming married rather than remaining single?

2. Why would it be good for those who are single, or single again due to life's circumstances, not to marry?

3. The problem with 'burning with passion' is that sooner or later we decide God doesn't really care if we are immoral. What do you think God expects morally out of a single woman? Why?

4. Read Proverbs 11:16. What do you think God means by a 'kind-hearted woman.'"

5. What difference does a kind heart make within a single woman?

6. Read Proverbs 11:22. Describe the idea God is painting with this picture.

7. Read Proverbs 31:30. What does Solomon tells us makes a woman worthy of praise in the eyes of God and man?

8. What do you believe keeps you from fearing the Lord as greatly as you should?
